

Post Training Review

Creating Connections in Our Faith Environment: Safe, Stable, Nurturing Relationships

Name

Date of Birth

Today's Date

Address

Parish / School / Program

Please circle all that apply:

Volunteer

Catholic School
Teacher / Admin.

Parish / School
Employee

Diocesan
Employee

Clergy

Parent

-
- Evidence that we were created for connection with others comes from:
 - Our theological beliefs.
 - The study of human development.
 - The fact that children are born dependent on adults.
 - The study of neurobiology.
 - All of the above.
 - True or False: The study of psychology and religion suggests that we are hard-wired to seek attachment relationships with people and relationship with God.
 - True.
 - False.
 - Which of the following is not true about the significance of early attachments for children?
 - Early attachment relationships are related to attachments later in life.
 - Attachment in relationships with others can predict attachment toward God.
 - There is no way to compensate for insecure attachment in childhood.
 - Children who experience secure attachments have more positive developmental outcomes.
 - Early attachment relationships are related to adult health.
 - Safe, stable, nurturing relationships are important in our faith environment for all of the following reasons, except:
 - They help us model Christ and teach the Gospel message.
 - They have no known impact on child development.
 - They provide a healing experience that many children may not experience in other areas of their lives.
 - They help insure that our actions are both loving and just.
 - They prevent abuse and promote resilience.
 - True or False. The term safety in the research on safe, stable, nurturing relationships refers only to safety in a child's physical environment.
 - True
 - False
 - According to the Centers for Disease Control, stability refers to:
 - The extent to which a child is free from fear and safe from harm within their social and physical environment.
 - The degree of predictability and consistency in a child's social, emotional, and physical environment.
 - The extent to which a caregiver is available and able to respond sensitively to their child's needs.
 - The extent to which a parent responds to and meets their child's needs.
 - None of the above.
 - What makes relationship an important part of catechesis?
 - The Gospel message is largely about relationships.
 - Catechesis takes place in the context of Relationship.
 - Curriculum is only secondary.
 - a and b
 - All of the above.
 - A nurturing response when a child discloses abuse includes:
 - Remaining calm and responding in a supportive manner.
 - Communicating that the child is not at fault.
 - Listening without interrupting.
 - Reporting abuse to appropriate authorities.
 - All of the above.

June 2015

Retain a copy for personnel file and send original to:
Child Protection Office, P.O. Box 1531, Grand Island, NE 68802

- Q1: e. All of the above.
- Q2: a. True
- Q3: c. There is no way to compensate for insecure attachment in childhood.
- Q4: b. They have no known impact on child development.
- Q5: b. False
- Q6: b. The degree of predictability and consistency in a child's social, emotional, and physical environment.
- Q7: d. a and b
- Q8: e. All of the above.